Dostoevsky's Short Works
Item # 3743  Max Students: 20  $109.80
This course explores Dostoevsky's short stories and novellas, spanning the earliest works that launched his career to the last story he wrote before embarking on his final great novel, The Brothers Karamazov. Along the way, we encounter the loveliest and the nastiest pieces that Dostoevsky ever wrote. No class held 11/12. Richard Middleton-Kaplan  Main Bldg. D 114  Oct. 1-Dec. 10  Mon., 5:00pm-7:00pm

How Shakespeare Changed History
Item # 3747  Max Students: 25  $109.80
Shakespeare is arguably the world's greatest playwright but a questionable historian. After all, the play's the thing, not the history. But he wrote ten plays named after English kings, including Henry V and Richard III, plays which have captured popular imagination despite their historical shortcomings. Guided by a specialist in medieval English political history, come read his history plays from King John onward. Learn to appreciate how and why he shaped history, and the facts behind the myths. No class held 11/12 and 11/26. Claire Valente  Main Bldg. D 104  Sept. 24-Dec. 10  Mon., 12:30pm-2:30pm
